

BIO-BIBLIOGRAPHY<sup>1</sup>

(1972–2019)

There is much truth in the philosophically intoned statement made by Marko Cepenkov that “if you observe a field from a high mountain, it seems to you it is flat as a pancake, but if you come close to it, you will see frightful gorges, gullies, marshes and quagmires.” Well, I made efforts not to be on the high mountain, but instead, cross the frightful gorges, gullies, marshes and quagmires” so as to accomplish my modest results that I enunciate in the bio-bibliography.

My creative opus, roughly speaking, contains approximately 500 bibliographic units (out of which more than 70 special editions, approximately 250 essays, articles and else, 92 reviews, and else, 42 chronicles, 32 interviews, electronic media shows from the field of Macedonian language and so on).

I cordially thank the critics (living and deceased) that reviewed my work. Those are the following professors and scholars:
